PHILADELPHIA

World Heritage Day

In 2016, Mayor Jim Kenney created Philadelphia World Heritage Day on the last Thursday of May to celebrate Philadelphia's World Heritage City Designation. Today, we celebrate World Heritage Week with a selection of events to highlight Philadelphia's international heritages and communities.

Friday, May 19th

10:30a - 12:30p

440 Locust St, Philadelphia, PA 19106

GPA and St. Mary Interparochial School are working together to debut the artwork of Isabelle Cress which highlights SDG 17: Partnership for the Goals. Additionally, this event will kick off GPA's celebrations for World Heritage Week, and will be occurring in conjunction with the 21st annual St. Mary annual Walkathon, occurring right after the walk.

Saturday, May 20th

10:00a - 12:30p

Liberty Bell 526 Market Street Philadelphia, PA 19106

Revolution Remix will change the way you see Philadelphia and its history. We'll walk down streets you may have walked before and visit sites you may have visited before, but the stories we tell are stories you've never heard. Starting at the Liberty Bell and ending at Race Street Pier on the banks of the Delaware River, Revolution Remix shares stories of South Asians in Philadelphia from the 1780s to the present day.

7:30p - 9:30p

736 S. Broad Street Philadelphia, PA 19146

The Clef Club presents Helen Sung, she has teamed up with her quartet and a poet, a hip-hop artist/rapper, and an installation artist in a series of interdisciplinary events to celebrate the range and diversity of Asian American artistry. Helen's 2021 Guggenheim Fellowship is being applied toward a multi-movement composition for big band; one of the movements, "Wayne's World," won the 2022 BMI Charlie Parker Jazz Composition Prize.

Sunday, May 21st

10:00a - 3:30p

Franklin Square, North 6th Street, Philadelphia, PA

Philadelphia Parks & Recreation has orchestrated a world class compilation of coaches, captains and players from the Philadelphia International Unity Cup soccer tournament to conduct a fun filled youth soccer clinic. Youth ages 4 to 14 years of age will participate in skills and drills taught by some of our area's most talented athletes. In collaboration with Philadelphia250 and Global Philadelphia Association, families can also enjoy fun heritage themed activities. All participants will receive soccer themed giveaways.

Monday, May 22nd

7:45a - 12:00p

Sonesta Rittenhouse Hotel 1800 Market St. Philadelphia, PA 19103

The World Trade Center of Greater Philadelphia (WTCGP) and the Temple University Center for International Business Education and Research (CIBER) proudly present the 19th Annual Global Business Conference (GBC). Get the latest insights and strategies for success from industry-leading experts in the fields of exporting, world finance, energy supply, fluctuating international markets, global expansion and more – all tailored for businesses based in Southeastern PA and South Jersey.
